3 Ways to Relieve Stress

Stress is your body's way of responding to any kind of demand or threat.

The body's natural response to protect automatically kicks in and is known as the "fight or flight" response. To help the body deal with the everyday stressors of life. Here are 3 ways to help relieve stress:

Get Active: Physical activities such as going on a walk, household chores, gardening, or even a bike ride can help reduce stress and take your mind off stress related topics.

Connect with Others: During the pandemic, creative ways have been implemented to see loved ones, friends and/or family virtually. FaceTime, and zoom meetings are other ways to connect with people while staying healthy.

Journal: Writing your thoughts, aspirations for the future or simply the events of the day can help relieve stress and get things off your mind for a bit and onto the page. It's yours to reflect on or toss, either way journaling helps to minimize stress.
